The rhythms and rituals of our lives have long been the province of the poets, prophets, and storytellers. Maybe humans have struggled since time immemorial to balance work and play, spirit and survival? A Special Collection will be taken today to benefit Unitarian Universalists for Social Justice (see page 7). Today is Signing Sunday -- for those who are ready to sign the PBUUC Membership Book, meet the Minister and Board member at the chalice after the postlude.

The Minister's mUUsings...

In my neighborhood, the Snowdrops appeared just after New Years. I know because I took a photo of them with my cell phone dated January 6th. The Daffodils have been flowering for over a month, the Helleborus orientalis or Lenten Rose (by its name, an early spring bloomer) for weeks, and the naturalized crocuses in the lawns and woods have been showing color for a week or more.

The blossoms are as pretty as ever, but this year they are not welcome harbingers of spring. This year these signs of spring are signs of trouble. They are daily reminders of the fact of global warming. I know that one season, in one year, does not make a trend, but I believe the scientific research that informs, and confirms, my worries. So I feel a quiet desperation. Even if we have a big snowstorm in March, my fears will not be assuaged.

I had a dream that I feel illustrates my wish for an easy solution to global warming. In the dream, I was coming out of the house and down the front steps with a pot of hot water in my hands. Several paces later, I tossed the water out and unintentionally onto a beautiful single pink flower blossom with a yellow stamen on a tall stem. At first I was chagrined, fearing the hot water would kill it, but quickly I was relieved to see the flower did not wither up but instead slowly folded up into its center and the plant retracted to its appropriate winter appearance. It was like a slow-motion film of its blossoming, only in reverse. I awoke feeling relieved and amazed, momentarily; and then alarmed.

Global warming is tempting to ignore, as something that happened at my house shows. When a coffee table book from the Natural Resources Defense Council, "The Last Polar Bear: Facing the Truth of a Warming World," arrived at our house in early January, we put it on display in our living room. We've been so busy since the holidays, I don't think either my husband or I had even opened it before I was asked to move it out of sight. Early in February, I was hosting a meeting of friends and one of them said she couldn't bear to talk about our mundane lives all the while faced with the book's cover. It shows two polar bears stranded on bright white sea ice surrounded by green sea water. They are looking up, as if beseechingly, to the airplane from which the photograph must have been taken. I moved the book to the bookshelf.

I will move it back to the coffee table, now that I've looked through it, the least I can do. What more? The book concludes with advice: observe your routines to reduce your energy use, write or call (better means than petitions and emails) your politicians and vote with the earth in mind, be a spark plug for better public policy, use less gasoline, and increase your efficiency in water and energy use.

In Maryland, we can support the legislation for offshore wind (an alternative energy source) and fight fracking (a process of oil extraction which discharges a key greenhouse gas, methane, into the atmosphere). I was one of 35 clergy in Prince George's County to sign the Greater Washington Interfaith Power and Light organization's letter to State Senator Anthony Muse and four Prince George's delegates in support of offshore wind power legislation. But I have not done anything about fracking yet.

As a congregation, we have all we can do to follow our Social Action priorities for this year - equal marriage, immigration reform and developing our connection with High Point High School. But maybe as individuals we can do more about global warming.

Doing more than the least I can do is the only way I know to feel less fearful and more hopeful. Let us pray for the energy!

Hoping to see you on Sundays,

Diane

“God save us from the end of March and the beginning of April”

What a hilarious proverb! No, really...it's a proverb! A rather overly dramatic one, at that! I found it when I was looking for the one about how March “comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb,” but it made me laugh so much I simply had to share. Well, at any rate, I don't know about you, but I certainly feel the speeding up of purposeful energy all around! As I write this, crocus clusters and daffodils are only now coming into bloom in clusters around the church property, but boy, do they mean business!

Or maybe they mean busyness.

You'll notice that the children do, too! What business? The business of growing, obviously, and that's exactly what our RE program is doing: growing. Growth is a pretty amazing thing. Its process is subtle, but its results are impossible to ignore. It is insistent and persistent. And it changes everything around it. Growth in nature, to me, is nothing but evidence of the power of life.

Over the last couple of months, we have welcomed at least two new babies into our PBUUC family! Over the next half of the year, we will be welcoming more. While these new arrivals are making themselves known, the ones from the last year are beginning to get up and running-and we do mean running-about. We tried adding a dollhouse here and taking away an accident-prone toy truck there, but we're still trying to keep up! And if that weren't enough growth for you, we've had the wonderful privilege of welcoming new, visiting and returning families, particularly in the elementary grades. What's been really fun, is seeing friendships develop among the children, old and new, as they buzz happily around inside and out of the RE building. That's when you really know you're on the right track, and I hope the growth in all these areas continues!

You may notice some changes in the RE building as the growth continues; we will be moving some classes around, for one, to make room for the different needs of some of our littlest, yet most tenacious family members. This is a welcome change for many families, and while it may require an adjustment period, I hope most of all it will give families and children a much needed sense of plenty of space. And a wonderful space it is.

Speaking of which, I've been delighted to spend some time with elementary-aged kids in the new Kids' Enrichment Hour, which, frankly, is just a way to indulge the child within as I teach them some of my favorite games and they teach me theirs. Don't be surprised if over the rest of the year you see us outside a lot...but I do hope by the time you read this letter, it will be a bit warmer outside!

Sincerely,

Erica Shadowsonq

Board of Trustees Column

It's late winter, and that means it's time for a Town Hall meeting. This is an opportunity for the congregation to hear about, discuss, and contribute their input on issues being considered by the Board of Trustees. This year, the Town Hall meeting is scheduled for March 4 during enrichment hour. Although the agenda hasn't been finalized as of this writing, here are some likely topics:

- Facilities: One of the goals that the BOT has this year is to get a facilities improvement effort underway. We've done some visioning and talked to the Green Team, and have some exciting ideas. We need broader input before going much farther.
- Dream Act and Immigration Issues: Jane Hudson will give us an update on what's happening here.
- Spirit of Life Center: This program has been underway for several months, so we'll use this opportunity to update the congregation on it.
- Long-term lease: When we didn't renew the lease with the Montessori school two years ago, we had planned to lease the basement of the RE Building on a 24/7 basis to generate income while allowing us to reclaim the space upstairs to be wholly ours. The potential renters we've found haven't been interested in that -- most nibbles have come from schools and churches. We need to gather congregational input on the conflicting priorities of generating income and retaining exclusive use of our space.

We look forward to seeing you there!

Stewardship Campaign 2012
Caring for our Beloved Community

March 4 - April 22, 2012

We have a lot to celebrate here at Paint Branch. A hard-working staff, more programs and affinity groups than we can count, a wonderful music program, and people like you.

Our annual stewardship campaign kicks off on Sunday, March 4. The Chalice Dancers will be premiering a new dance especially for this service. You will be hearing testimonials from some of our youth, who grew up right here at Paint Branch.

This is the time of year when we are asked to renew our financial commitment to Paint Branch. For new members and friends, you may be asked to make a financial commitment for the first time. We have recruited an enthusiastic team of Visiting Stewards. Beginning March 4, you will be contacted by a Visiting Steward. Please set aside some time to have a conversation about how much Paint Branch means to you.

As always, all situations are different. All pledges are important, whether large or small. The main source of income for our operating budget comes from members and friends who have made a financial commitment in the form of a yearly pledge. We look forward to talking with you. Remember, we can't do it without you.

Monday Watercolorists Update

The current exhibit by the Monday Watercolorists will remain on display through March 11, 2012. Information about the specific paintings is posted on the pillar at the left side of the Meeting House at the back. The next exhibit will be collage and abstracts by two residents of Riderwood, Carolyn Stearns and Sylvia Valentino. Does all the beautiful work we have on display make you feel your creative urges stirring? Consider coming to the Artist in You Circle which is part of the Spirit of Life Center.

We meet on Saturday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30 in rooms 2/3 in the RE Building. Find a supportive group of other artists there working, bring your own materials and if you wish donate $5 each week. You may call Jane Trout for further information at 301-572-2898 or email jd_trout@msn.com.

MARYLAND MAKING MARRIAGE EQUALITY HISTORY – WITH STRONG UU SUPPORT!

At this writing the Maryland House of Delegates has passed the Civil Marriage Protection Act! By the time you read this the likelihood is that the Senate will have too – and it will be signed into law by the governor! How proud we can be as UUs that for years our denomination has stood with the gay, lesbian, bi-sexual, and transgender community in this campaign for equality under MD law - so that hundreds of civil marriage rights will be the same for GLBT couples, as they are for heterosexual couples who marry under Maryland law.

Very special thanks to Paint Branchers, and our wonderful minister Diane Teichert, who gave so much to reach this historic moment! Calls, letters & e-mails written to state legislators, Standing on the Side of Love valentines filled out, lobbying and attending hearings in Annapolis, going to special events for marriage equality at Busboys & Poets and other venues, making calls into targeted districts at our weekly phone bank, canvassing, speaking with friends and family, and so much else! Thank you all! Truly our UU social justice values were put into social action for a cause we deeply believed in; no matter what the outcome this year!

We are still in need of Help with Data Entry for the Marylanders for Marriage Equality Coalition on Wednesdays from 2-5 and Saturdays from 3-6. Contact Karess Taylor-Hughes, Regional field organizer, for more information at Phone: 202-216-1573, cell: 202-716-1604, and her e-mail: karess.taylor-hughes@hrc.org.

Special Collections Update

The special collection for February 12 was taken for the Human Rights Campaign Foundation. Generous support from members of the Cedar Lane Unitarian Universalist Church (Bethesda, Maryland) choir who sang with the PBUUC choir during Sunday Service, helped bring in $401 in cash and $615 in checks for a combined total of $1,016!

The special collection for March 25 will be for Unitarian Universalists for Social Justice (UUSJ), a partnership of congregations, organizations and individuals deeply committed to our religious principles of human dignity, justice and compassion for all people. Checks may be made payable to: UUSJ.

New Immigration Justice Core Group Forming

The 2012 UUA General Assembly in Phoenix, Arizona is being devoted to immigration justice. SAC is forming an Immigration Justice Core Group (Standing on the Side of Love) to decide what educational and advocacy issues Paint Branch members and friends should focus on this year. Many UU churches in the DC-MD-VA area are engaged in immigration activities. If you are interested in getting more involved in immigration issues and would like to have a voice in the direction Paint Branch goes, please come to the first meeting of the Immigration Justice Core Group during the enrichment hour on Sunday, March 17. Community Café Call for Volunteers

If you are looking to do a short volunteer stint on a once a month basis, then come and join the Community Café volunteers who serve a hearty lunch to the hungry and homeless. The Café is sponsored by Paint Branchers on the fourth Tuesday of each month, at the Hyattsville First Methodist Church from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Lunch is served at noon. You can get to know and work with our wonderful volunteers John Bartoli, Chuck Bury, Nancy Etkin, Jeri Holloway, Elizabeth Scheiman, Pat Tompkins, Alice Tyler, and Meg Waugh. On any given service day, five to seven volunteers serve the meal. Three volunteers take turns preparing the food which consists of five gallons of chili served on a split bun, with a side of pineapple chunks, a cold drink, and cookies for dessert. Community Café usually serves about 70 individuals, most of whom are day laborers, homeless and sometimes pre-school age children.

Diversity/Anti-Racism Transformation Team (DARTT)

Moving into Action Multiculturally

Our congregation's intention to be multicultural must be grounded in our mission with goals we can act upon. In order for our January 16 Leadership Forum on Intentional Multiculturalism to result in successful outcomes, Taquiena Boston, Director of Multicultural Growth and Witness for the UUA, gave us specific multicultural tools to practice as four groups of church culture named existing assets and opportunities. She also pointed out that to move forward multiculturally, there will be group, committee, and congregational goals and that as individuals, we will also need to set personal goals for our spiritual growth and multicultural development.

It is encouraging that such groups as the Worship Associates, the newly reforming Membership Committee, the Religious Exploration Committee, the Diversity/Anti-Racism Transformation Team, and the Social Action Committee are using the multicultural practices of Mutual Invitation and Process Observation in their meetings.

During the Leadership Forum, Taquiena Boston explained that speaking is empowering and that denying members in a group equal speaking time results in an uneven distribution of power rather than sharing power which is more consistent with our UU principles and with multicultural values. Taquiena provided a handout about Rev. Eric H. F. Law's Mutual Invitation method in groups of less than 12 people. The handout describes how to use a fishbowl technique in concentric circles for town hall-sized discussions.

Attendees divided into four broad categories of congregational life: Worship, Social Justice, Community Life, and Leadership Development. These groups practiced the mutual invitation process to consider who benefits from our current ways of operating -- whose lives are touched by the programs and worship that we currently offer. We were encouraged to think of our assets as those things we are currently doing that build community within and outside of the congregation, the things we currently do to foster interfaith, racial, cultural, sexual minority or generational inclusion, and to further consider how our ways of operating now impact relationships with those stakeholders. Our goal of advancing multiculturally will involve increasing our assets by expanding our inclusion of diverse stakeholders. Each group was asked to name specific actions to be taken for immediate goals (within the next 2 months), for intermediate goals (within 2-12 months) and for long-term goals that will realize our multicultural intentions. The following lists of actions will need to be reviewed, assessed, and modified as we continue to progress multiculturally.

DARTT Continued...LAY-LED SUMMER SERVICES PLANNING UNDERWAY

One of our congregation's strengths is its tradition of strong services year round. Lay members, friends and guest speakers provide most of the services during the summer and throughout the year whenever the minister is away or off. The dates for the lay-led Summer Services traditionally run from the third Sunday in June through the Sunday before Labor Day. Our cadre of Worship Associates works with members and friends to coordinate these services.

On Sunday, March 18 and Sunday, April 29 during Enrichment Hour (from 11:45 am to 12:45 pm), the Worship Associates will host two Summer Services Planning Meetings. (Child care is available during Enrichment Hour.)

March 18

If you, your affinity group or committee has an idea for a Summer Service, bring it to this meeting. Your proposal should consist of a theme, an in-progress plan--the more developed the better--, some proposed dates, and contact information for the Service Leader(s). If you can't attend, you may send a proxy, or submit a written proposal to any Worship Associate prior to the meeting.

If you plan to have a guest speaker, performer, etc., there are no funds available for honoraria, but we will consider the sale of their books, CDs, etc., on the day of their service. (This should be part of your proposal.) Whether you plan to do this yourself, with a group, or bring in an outside speaker, now is the time to start planning.

April 29

Before this second meeting, you'll be notified if your proposal has been scheduled. At the meeting, we will discuss your more fully-developed plan, firm up a date and assign a Worship Associate who will work with you on all the details necessary to present an excellent service in the best Paint Branch tradition!

New proposals for Summer Services will be considered at this second meeting only if the full schedule has not been filled. You can contact any Worship Associate for more information. We are: Claire Boston, Celinda Marsh, Don Mitchell, Marilyn Pearl, Ken Redd, John Sebastian and Carol Carter Walker.

DARTT is pleased to present Mosaic Harmony in concert at Paint Branch on Saturday, May 5, at 7:00 pm. A reception will follow the concert. Child care will be provided.

Fortune's Bones. The Story Continues ...

The Manumission Requiem is done. About 40 Paint Branchers and their friends attended one of the performances on February 25 or February 26. Three members of our congregation were part of the event, serving in the African bell chorus or the choir. Several went to lunch on Sunday before the performance.

There are other activities at the University of Maryland and other venues about Fortune and his story. Please pick up a brochure in the Meeting House Foyer, or go to www.claricesmithcenter.umd.edu/fortune. You may also talk to our Minister, Reverend Diane Teichert, who is part of the Fortune Planning Committee.

Green Team News

UPDATE ON COMPOSTING AND RECYCLING

PBUUC is located in Prince George's County which practices Single Stream recycling. Don't stop reading now! Single Stream recycling is really easy. Everything gets dumped into one bin, which is then collected, taken to a central facility for sorting with advanced large machines. Everything is recycled except styrofoam, packing foam and peanuts, auto parts, and hazardous materials which do not degrade. There are signs posted by each recycling bin in the church describing what can be recycled. Compost also has signs posted by the collecting bins. We currently accept all food waste, paper products, teabags, coffee grounds; anything you consume or the paper plates you consume it on can be thrown right in the compost bin. What could be easier?

If you decide to dump the compost bin in the larger bins outside, please cover up what you have dumped with leaves and put some leaves at the bottom of the bin to bring back inside. The Green Team has noticed an increase in both recycling and composting! Keep up the good work! And thank you to all those Stewards out there, you ARE making a huge difference!

The Board of Trustees met with the Green Team, February 19 to discuss what's involved with a parking lot upgrade. Drainage is obviously one of the big issues and we are looking for passionate people to help professionals in the search for a solution. We are committed to constructing a green parking lot, that will be inviting to all comers.

Maryland Bills Worth Supporting

In February a letter writing project was held to encourage PBUUC members and friends to contact their Delegates and State Senators about the bill being considered that would prohibit drilling for natural gas, using the injection of water and chemicals under pressure to fracture the shale holding the gas, until adequate and safe regulations can be adopted and the work of the Governor's Commission on drilling in our State has been completed. Both Clean Water Action and Chesapeake Climate Action Network, from whom we have had a great deal of valuable help over the years, have adopted the urgent position of delaying lifting the moratorium until the work of the Commission is complete.

The Governor's bill establishing the development of wind power infrastructure in certain offshore locations has a very good chance of passing this session. This technology for Maryland has been studied extensively. It would mean increasing independence from coal- and oil-burning sources of energy. There is a long list of Sponsors in addition to the Governor so it just needs encouragement from a significant number of voters, and that's us.

If you missed the letter writing table last month it is not too late. It is easy to find your Delegates and Senator on line by going to the following website: <http://mdelect.net/> then type in your address and a list of your elected officials appear with corresponding address, phone number, and email address when you click on the name.

The next meeting of the Green Team is March 11 during Enrichment Hour. Meetings are open, so bring your ideas and help us move on these issues.

Community Organizing by Two PBUUC Members

Jennifer Robinson led the PBUUC Green Team through the process of completing requirements for our denomination's Green Sanctuary Certificate. (It is on display in the meeting house foyer.) Now she has moved on to take the lead on a request to the Greenbelt City Council that it go on record as opposing the recent Supreme Court ruling which allows unlimited funding of political campaigns by corporations. In early February she presented a petition signed by many Greenbelt residents to the City Council. Such requests are in process in many towns and cities across the country as a preliminary to Congressional action or a Constitutional Amendment. Her comments were very logically presented and were well received by the Council members and citizens in attendance. A year ago, immediately after the Court's decision was announced, our member, Jessica Sharp, began organizing a rally in Annapolis that resulted in a very few days of a list of over twenty speakers including Delegates and Senators as well as leaders from organizations long associated with civil liberties. We can be proud of both these members and do what we can to help with this issue, however we see the question of freedom of speech. Both Jennifer and Jessica can be contacted on e mail at : jrobinson720@yahoo.com and spangledangle@gmail.com.

Newcomer's Classes

Saturday, March 10

Introduction to Unitarian Universalism 10:00am - 12:00 noon

Finding Your Way in PBUUC 1:00 - 3:00 pm

Light Lunch 12:00 noon - 1:00 pm

If you are new to Paint Branch Unitarian Universalist Church, join the Minister for the classes she loves to lead.

Come for one or both. Either way, enjoy fellowship over lunch.

In the morning, you will learn about the journey of Unitarian Universalism: the long-ago roots of our living tradition, how it evolved in the United States, where it is today and what its creative tensions may be going forward – all considered in relation to your own religious journey, with time for sharing with other participants.

In the afternoon, you will meet our congregation's elected leaders as well as some of those who lead our programs and activities. You will hear fascinating stories from its past, and be helped to figure out how the congregation is organized, what our major programs are – those that serve the congregation, those that serve the community, and those that try to change the world – and how you can get involved.

Interested? Please sign up in the Foyer on Sunday, call or contact the PBUUC office: 301-937-3666 or email churchadmin@pbuuc.org. Childcare will be provided if requested.

Suggested homework: the recommended and very readable Our Chosen Faith, by John Buehrens and Forrest Church, is available for sale ($15) or to borrow in the Foyer on Sundays, or may be ordered from the UUA Bookstore at http://www.uuabookstore.org/.

As you are getting to know the congregation, Rev. Teichert is available to meet with you to discuss your questions or for pastoral care (perhaps regarding your faith journey, transitions in your life, or your joys and sorrows). Please call her at 301-937-3666 or email minister@pbuuc.org to set up a time to talk, in her office, at your house, or near where you work or live for tea/coffee or lunch.

The Head and Heart History Group (H3G) Presents:
'Honoring the Indigenous Stewards of PBUUC's Land: the Anacostians'

On October 6, 2011, our fellow congregant, Carol Carter Walker, posted a notice on our listserv indicating that the Unitarian Universalist Association (UUA) was encouraging us to 'celebrate Indigenous Peoples Day on October 10' (rather than Columbus Day). She also posted the following background information:

“Some of the activities that UUA headquarters and staff suggest as ways to honor indigenous people are:

- Engage with “Immigration As A Moral Issue,” the 2010-2014 Congregational Study/Action Issue.
- Find out whose land your congregation’s facilities were built on.
- Build and strengthen connections to nearby Native communities.
- Provide age-appropriate education on Native American lives and cultures.
- Host a congregation-wide common read and book discussion.”

As a person raised to identify as ‘African American’, my participation as head of H3G (starting in early 2011) had, by that time, very much enriched my own 'encouragement to spiritual growth'; particularly in terms of paying holistic homage to my geographically-various indigenous ancestral lineages (rather than solely those from Africa – where most, but NOT all, of them root). Thus, by then, certain details of my life journey in this respect enabled me to easily attain and post the following information on October 8 in response to Carol’s suggestions above and recommendation to find out whose land our congregation’s facilities were built on.

I received this response (from Rico Newman: spokesman for the Piscataway Conoy branch of the Piscataway – natives of southern PG County), "Riverdale, Adelphi, Hyattsville, College Park, Cottage City, Kenilworth, Bladensburg and other areas along the northern reaches of what is known as the Anacostia River and its tributaries were used as permanent and wintering grounds by the Nacotchhtank (Anacostians) and related tribes."

Since I attained this information in October, my continued activities along these lines enabled me to forge even tighter interactional bonds with certain members of the Piscataway community. As a result, I was honored to share in their joy on January 9, 2012 upon their attaining formal state recognition in Maryland! No other Native group has of yet achieved said recognition; and it was through a very frustrating, decades-long ordeal that the Piscataway finally achieved this goal.

In light of this combination of events, it occurred to me as the head of H3G, to invite Mr. Newman to speak on his knowledge of both the traditional land and ways of life of his Piscataway ancestors, as well as those of their northern neighbors; the Anacostians (the founding caretakers of PBUUC's land and stream). To my delight, he agreed!

The event will take place during Enrichment Hour on Sunday, March 11. I have chosen this date, in part, to honor the March 9 birthday of Amerigo Vespucci; the man who 'set the record straight' that the New World was not 'India'. Hence the theme of Mr. Newman's talk will be along the lines of 'Setting the Record Straight' in terms of the lifeways of both the Piscataway, and the Anacostians. All are welcome to attend! To RSVP and attain additional details, please send an email: headhearthisory@pbuuc.org.

Remember the Gah Rham?

Our long time TWedHUULK regulars will have fond memories of Larry Lates' favorite buffet. The Gah Rham at 5027 Garrett Ave. in Beltsville features a pan Asian menu, with a few tables equipped with Korean barbeque stoves. It is inexpensive, the food is very tasty, and it is advertised as “all you can eat.”

The Third Wednesday Handy UU Lunch Klub will meet on Wednesday, March 21 at 1:00 pm. If you are able to join us please contact Marge Owens on lowellandmarge@verizon.net or 301-345-1572. It is located in a shopping strip half a block off Baltimore Ave. (Rte. 1). To find Garrett Ave. (where you will turn left if you are driving north) remember it is between Behnke's Garden Center and Remington's bar and grill.

UU United Nations Intergenerational Seminars in New York City — April 12 to 14

The topic will be “Beyond Borders: Breaking Barriers of Race and Immigration.” These meetings are always very full of new thinking introduced by speakers recruited from universities; people working in risky, new approaches to thorny problems. At the intersection of race and immigration, we will observe that the experiences of an immigrant (documented or not) from Sweden is most likely very different from the experience of an immigrant (documented or not) from Latin America or Africa. Why is that? What can we do?

Young people arrive a day early to do the final planning for the 3 days of work on the topic. The young people who attend, juniors and seniors in high school or early college age, are very well prepared on the topics - and prepared to have a good time. They sleep in the nearby All Souls UU Church a few subway stops from our meeting location, with sleeping bags. The fees for youth are kept affordable. Half the meals are provided at no cost by neighboring UU congregations. Half those who attend, both youth and older people, are always Canadian UUs. And about half those who attend are youth. We usually attend a hearing at the U.N. Headquarters on our topic.

There are no registration fees for those who have attended in the past and now are willing to act as mentors for a group of youth throughout the seminars. Adults who plan to attend may try to register for the days they plan to be in NYC at the YMCA nearest to the U.N. It fills very early. Another YMCA is available but is further away. There are several relatively lower cost hotels some of us have used. Details of the cost of registering and hotel rates will be available soon.

The UU UNO gets more exciting every year. It has very recently become an arm of the UUA for the first time since it was begun with the help of Adlai Stevenson, a Unitarian and the first U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations after its establishment. Contact Marge Owens on lowellandmarge@verizon.net or 301-345-1572 if you are interested.

UU Christian Gathering in VA March 22-25

"Welcoming the Feminine in Christianity: Many Voices, Many Verses" is the theme of the Revival/Retreat 2012 gathering on March 22-25 sponsored by the national Unitarian Universalist Christian Fellowship, to be held at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation of Fairfax, 2709 Hunter Mill Road in Oakton, VA.

Three Keynote lectures will include: "Feminist Theologies in Action: Women Around the World Doing Faith-based Justice Work" by Dr. Mary E. Hunt, author and co-founder and co-director of the Women's Alliance for Theology, Ethics, and Ritual. "Wide Open Spaces: Women's Voices in Christianity" by Dr. Amy Oden, author and Dean of Wesley Theological Seminary. "Mary Magdalene: Woman and Archetype" by Margaret Starbird, author and lecturer on the Divine Feminine in Christianity.

The event is open to all regardless of religious affiliation. For more information, visit www.uuchristian.org or contact Executive Director Rev. Ron Robinson, executivedirector@uuchristian.org or 918-691-3223.
